President Aquino keynotes the 5th global conference of parliamentarians against corruption that held its opening ceremony at the Philippine International Convention Center in Pasay City on Thursday.

John Williams, former CEO, of GOPAC explained that the country has made notable progress towards the goal of ending corruption, especially through the prosecution of high-level officials such as deposed Chief Justice Renato Corona.

The Global Organization Of Parliamentarians Against Corruption (GOPAC) is an international network of parliamentarians dedicated to achieving good governance and combating corruption throughout the world.

Since its inception, GOPAC has provided information and analysis, established international benchmarks, and improved public awareness through a combination of global pressure and national action.

From January 30 to February 2, the Philippines will play host to almost 500 delegates consisting of parliamentarians, concerned government representatives and passionate civil society individuals from 78 countries across the globe in their quest to connect, educate and absorb how legislature can fight corruption.

The GOPAC global conference is a biennial event that brings together leaders, members, prospective members, stakeholders and funders to further inspire, educate and equipt GOPAC chapters and its individual members in the ongoing fight against corruption.

This year's theme is: "good leaders, good laws, good citizens."
